BIG JOB FOR MEN

RANDALL SAYS CALIFORNIA IS CITADEL FOR KING ALCOHOL IN THE WEST

In harmony with a desire of the Rev. B. Dudley Snudden, pastor of the First Methodist church, to occasionally utilize the efforts of laymen, last evening was accorded to congressman, present and elect, C. H. Randall, the occasion being the installation of the newly elected brotherhood officials, the address being in part intended for these, the impressive ceremonies following the address of the honorable speaker, who was greeted by a full house. The informal part of his address was mainly directed to old friends and neighbors, among whom he was well known from frequent visits and long labors in prohibitory work. After his formal address to the Brotherhood and general audience, he was met in a very cordial manner by the greater part of the large audience who remained after dismissal for that purpose. Below will be found an outline of his address to the Brotherhood:

I come to you tonight, not to urge the advantage of a brotherhood organization or to participate in your initiation or installation, but to cut out a job for you when you are organized. There is a big job waiting a body of men just like yours.

I don't agree with the Chicago Tribune when it calls California a boob state, but I blush for shame when I read that Michigan and Montana and Nebraska and South Dakota and Idaho and even Alaska adopted prohibition by popular vote, and California chooses to remain wet. Omaha and Detroit, and Nebraska and Michigan are dry today.

Our solution of San Francisco should be Billy Sunday, and our solution of California should be a constant campaign from this day forth.

The men of our churches have never taken hold of the prohibition questions in the proper way. The only organization in history which has consistently and persistently, day and night, rain or shine, winter or summer, fought the liquor traffic is a woman's organization, the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The men have not been faithful. They have fought only at election time. Then they let all their good work slip back, and it must all be done over in every campaign.

The job I would give you is to emulate the example of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Let us have a men's organization in the church whose business it is to fight the rum power in this state, day and night, until the next California dry election occurs.

The liquor power will entrench in this state in an amazing manner in the immediate future. Do you realize that the entire Pacific coast from Bering sea to Mexico is dry, except California? Do you realize that the entire western half of the United States is dry except the sage brush plains of Wyoming and the greasewood wastes of Nevada and New Mexico?

From the Missouri river west and along the entire Pacific front, involving the liquor traffic of the great western empire and of the hundreds of millions in the Orient, California now becomes the citadel of King Alcohol. It is not a pleasant picture. We must realize quickly that this state will now be a battle ground of vast importance to the liquor men. It will not be given up without a gigantic struggle and the expenditure of millions of dollars.

If we are to clean up California there is no time to waste. The campaign is on! Will your Brotherhood and all the Brotherhoods set the lines of battle now, never to rest for a moment until the next "California Dry" election day comes?

Despite the fact that the liquor power will fight harder than ever to hold California, there is great encouragement for us in the result of the recent election. Los Angeles county increased its dry vote over two years ago, nearly 40,000. Alameda county increased its dry vote 17,000. San Francisco gave 70 per cent more dry votes this year than in 1914.

California, outside of San Francisco, voted dry this year by more than 30,000 majority, but San Francisco voted wet by 76,000 majority. San Francisco is our problem. Omaha was Nebraska's problem and Detroit was Michigan's problem in former elections.

Billy Sunday solved both.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

The executive board of the Glendale Garden society will meet on Thursday evening at 7:30 in the library of the Third street school. MORRIS E. CARUTHERS, Secretary.

POSTOFFICE QUESTION

CONGRESSMAN RANDALL WILL GIVE PUBLIC HEARING TO APPLICANTS

Congressman Randall announces that he will spend the entire day on Saturday, Nov. 18, 1916, in Glendale for the purpose of hearing the wishes of our people on the post-office question, and as to the selection of a postmaster. The hearing will begin at 10 a. m. at the Glendale union high school. It is urged that every interested citizen and organization express an opinion. This will not be a public hearing, but Congressman Randall will hear everyone individually. No choice has yet been made even tentatively, and petitions will have little value. It is desired that our people present in person their recommendations in this matter.

NO CAUSE FOR DISCOURAGEMENT

Editor of Evening News:

I have been greatly interested in the political campaign now just closed, especially that part which referred to the wet and dry. I suppose the wets will feel that the dries have gone down in defeat. But we do not see it that way. Victory may be delayed. We feel that we are on the Lord's side and that "in due season we shall reap if we faint not."

This campaign is worth all it cost as an educator. It has opened the eyes of the people, and we shall all be the better for it. Christ says the truth shall make you free, and we are led to say with Julia Ward Howe in her Battle Hymn of the Republic, "Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord; He is tramping out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored. He has loosed the fitful lightnings of his terrible swift sword; His truth is marching on."

I feel that there is no serious occasion for discouragement. We are schooling for the campaigns yet to come, and the day will be the brighter for the victories yet to come.

I could not vote, not having been in the state long enough. But I esteem it to have been a privilege to be here during the campaign. Mrs. Glenn and I had the privilege to help boost the saloons from Oregon. But Oregon had no sooner got rid of them than saloons in Hornbrook, just over the line in California, started up ready to run booze in on us. So we have felt more interest, if possible, in California than we did in Oregon.

I feel that we have everything to win and nothing to lose. The saloon is evil, and only evil, and that continually, and in our fight we may be sure "He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat. Our God is marching on."

GERMAN EAST AFRICA

ADVENTIST MISSIONARY TELLS OF NATIVE REBELLION ON LAKE VICTORIA NYANZA

Missionaries in German East Africa have been compelled since the war began to maintain a Robinson Crusoe existence so far as modern home comforts are concerned. Like our New England forefathers, some of them have been obliged to use native grains for flour, tallow candles for light, wild honey for sugar, soap made from ashes and lime, and to wear goatskin clothing. In a recent letter, Mr. Valdemar E. Toppenberg, formerly of Boulder, Colo., now a Seventh-day Adventist missionary stationed on the eastern shore of the Victoria Nyanza, tells vividly of the hurried escape he and his family and assistants made from the infuriated natives who had risen in rebellion. In his flight he passed through an uncaged zoological garden, with hundreds of wild beasts on every side. Mission stations have been pillaged and afterward destroyed by the natives, he says. His letter was mailed from English Camp, Ukerewe Island, formerly German East Africa, and follows:

"When the war began we were not very well prepared for it as far as food and clothes were concerned; we had just sent orders to British East Africa for sugar and flour and oil. Large shipments of goods from Europe and America arrived in Mombasa, of which nothing ever reached us. At a stroke we were set back to the middle ages. We had no white flour, not even wheat to make from; no white sugar, no petroleum, no soap—in short, nothing of all the things we used to think indispensable. These and many other things we had to find substitutes for—bananas, native grains and muhogo for flour, wild honey for sugar, candles made of tallow for light, soap from wood ashes and lime. Clothes were also not to be had so we wore pants and coats made of goat and gazelle skins, made yarn of cotton and knitted stockings, and so forth. But in spite of all, our bread and water has been sure, and more than that, God gave us an abundance of good things, his promises have been more than fulfilled. The whole machinery of our missions was kept running until recently, save that all building was stopped.

"Uproar among the natives was feared by the government people at the beginning of the war, and we were instructed to inform the natives by our stations that there was no war between Europeans and natives, only soldier against soldier.

"Not long after the opening of the war, the Masais, a fierce and warlike tribe east of Busegwe, our oldest station, came swarming the country, robbing cattle, and at one time when they plundered in Usukuma by Kanadi, one of our workers lost his life in defense of the people for whom he faithfully worked. He was stabbed from behind by a spear. Before this occurred, another worker had been shot by a stray bullet that passed through the wall of the mission house in Shirati.

"Early last June, the English occupied Ukerewe Island, where I am writing this, and in July they took Muawza, the seat of the provincial commissioner of this province, in which all our stations on the German side are located. When the natives heard of this, they lost fear of the German officials and even openly disobeyed orders, and when all the officials as well as military left Ikidi, they killed the native police and watchmen left to guard the station. They robbed the government property, and it was reported to us that the Christians who had been left behind by Dr. Vasenius to watch mission property had been driven away, some killed and their huts burned. I tried to send messengers to them with words of courage and instruction, but all returned with the letters because of the war raging everywhere. The uproar spread quickly from tribe to tribe, every day bringing new and startling reports.

"My family and I were the only Europeans left in the district as far south as the river Mbalageti, and we had been warned by the government officials that an uproar was to be expected; also in the last word we heard from any of our missionaries Mr. Ohme wrote upon going south to meet his company that he feared an uproar, but that he did not know of any safe place where he could advise us to go.

"We could not very well, with a 15-months-old baby, run around in the unknown with the soldiers, and whereas we expected that the English very soon would show up, we decided to wait on our station until we should get some evident sign that we ought to leave. We did what we could to protect ourselves, put in (Continued on Page 3)

THE POULTRY SHOW

GLENDALE-TROPICO POULTRY ASSOCIATION READY FOR ANNUAL EXHIBIT

Arrangements are about complete for the forthcoming show of the Glendale-Tropico Poultry and Pet Stock association. The dates have been advanced two days over the original schedule, to December 5, 6, 7, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and we trust that all our poultry people will carefully bear in mind the change of date. The location chosen is on the corner of Broadway and Maryland, where a tent 60 by 100 will be erected, ample in size to not only accommodate all of the entries but will give an excess of space to concessions, as the feed and poultry supply houses, etc.

It is expected that at least 400 specimens will be on exhibition. New coops, never before used, have been arranged for, and it is the plan of the poultry association to give one of the most classy shows ever seen in Southern California.

The eight specialty judges secured, every one an expert breeder, will pass on the birds in less than three hours, a record never broken, and all ribbons up when the doors are open.

Cash and merchandise prizes to the amount of over $100 have been offered as awards for merit. Mr. R. H. Whitten has offered $35 in gold for the best cockerel, pullet and pen of the Whitten strain of White Orpingtons. This will induce many to compete in the White Orpington class and we will sure see a grand display of these big, white, fluffy birds.

The rich prize offered for the best Black Rose Comb Bantam by Mr. Harold Walthew will bring out the largest class of these little beauties ever seen in a show room in Southern California, if not in the state.

The other popular varieties will have heavy entries, as the Rocks, Reds, Leghorns, Anconas, etc.

The premium list will be out very soon, giving all necessary information about entering the birds. Anyone not receiving one can get a supply at Virginia's Sweet Shop, 612 West Broadway. See that all of the breeders get a copy; all free.

Entries close December 1. A prize in this show is pretty nearly equal to one you may get in any show this season. We have birds of rare and unexcelled quality in this section. Get a premium list and see the awards.

MCRAE'S PROPHECY COMES TRUE

Mr. W. D. McRae, 1321 Dryden street, Casa Verdugo, is in receipt of the following letter from the president:

Shadow Lawn, Oct. 31, 1916.
My Dear Mr. McRae:

Your kind letter of the twenty-fifth of October is a very generous one, indeed, and I am heartened and gratified by what you tell me. Pray accept my cordial thanks for your friendly interest and approbation.

With deep appreciation of your cheering words, believe me to be
Cordially and sincerely yours,
(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

Mr. McRae said: "I wrote the president a short time ago, telling him that Colonel Harvey was not the only one who prophesied 50,000 majority for him when he was elected governor of New Jersey; that was my forecast, too. You may recall the exact majority was 49,056. I told him, too, that three weeks before he was elected governor of New Jersey I had received a letter from him and I stated to my friends then that one of these days I would have a letter from the president of the United States; in other words, I prophesied that Woodrow Wilson in due time would become president. On the strength of this I wrote Mr. Wilson recently, making a double prophecy: first, that California would go for him; second, that he would be elected. Naturally, I am a little proud of having heard from the White House and proving myself so true a prophet. This was not mere guessing on my part but a careful estimate as the result of my study as I traveled throughout the United States in the interest of the country boys and representing the state executive committee of the California Young Men's Christian associations."

The hunting was done in the region of the Santa Clara river.

UNNECESSARY EXPENSE IN BUSINESS

The modern way of doing business is attended with a greater expense than the old way. Now patrons of a business house expect numerous courtesies that were not looked for thirty and forty years ago. One of the important items of expense in modern business is the free delivery system. The free delivery of articles of little value is a burden of expense to many merchants. The salary paid to the deliveryman and the cost of up-keep of the motorcycle or auto truck is a matter of expense worth considering.

Many local buyers have formed a habit of being undecided as to what they wish to purchase until they call at a store, and then sometimes a half hour's time of a clerk is required to make a sale amounting to only a few cents. The plan of ordering merchandise by phone is a convenience to the housekeeper, but the ordering by phone system makes an additional expense for the merchant. Telephone service, modern lighting and auto delivery service are items of overhead expense that were unknown forty years ago.

Competition now is very spirited. In the early history of the country a man could engage in the mercantile business without fear of competition, but now if a merchant is supposed to be making a white man's profit it will not be long until opposition springs up all about him, and then he is unable to do business in a successful manner, and those who have newly started in the same line of business cannot make a living, so the community in the end suffers from the overdoing of business. What is needed in a community is honest, aggressive merchants, men who will deal fair with the public, and with such men in business the fewer stores the better for all concerned.

VALUE OF BUSINESS POISE

"There is always room at the top" were the closing words of the usual speech delivered in the presence of high school boys and girls in years past. The very brief statement, "There is always room at the top," has great significance. For a boy or girl to reach that place in life that he or she may be eligible to the high positions means much hard work and self sacrifice.

A thorough business education is one of the essentials a man must possess to be eligible to hold a high position. A business education does not include only a knowledge of penmanship, mathematics and the use of business forms, but it includes a thorough business training. Methodical reasoning is a part of a business education, as is also a well balanced mind. To know when and how to do things has been the means of many a man's success in life. There is an opportune time and fortunate is he who can take advantage of it.

A knowledge of penmanship, bookkeeping and business forms serve as aids to the man who is seeking high positions in the business world, but the great essential is a business poise which makes it possible for the person, holding this high position to consider business problems carefully.

The business college can train the hand, the eye and the brain, but when it comes to business poise that is a qualification that comes as a result of a life time's training. Many men have engaged in business and failed to succeed, not on account of knowledge, but on account of lack of business poise.

INFLUENCE OF SURROUNDINGS

Like begets like. A neatly painted dwelling house surrounded by a well kept lawn serves as a power to cause other nearby buildings and lawns to be kept in a neat and attractive condition. Often has it been noticed that a new house would be placed on an unsettled tract of city property, and the owner of that house would arrange everything in perfect order. The next property owner who builds in that locality will be careful to keep up the high standard of neatness started by his neighbor.

Neatness in dress has its influence. One man dresses neatly and others will do the same; one man is courteous and accommodating; others are courteous and accommodating. The plan of placing before the view of people only the beautiful objects is to be commended and eventually it would lead to a higher and nobler standard of life.

Argument is thus furnished favoring the establishment of beautiful parks, and maintaining well kept lawns and parkways.

VALUE OF GOOD ROADS

One of the greatest assets of a state is its good roads. The general use of so many automobiles throughout the country is proving to be a great factor in convincing their users that good roads are a saving to motorists. The great expense necessary for the up-keep of automobiles on account of rough roads is an item well worth considering. The money spent for improving the roads is returned tenfold to the taxpayers in the saving of motor vehicles. In addition to saving in the wear and tear on the auto there is a gain in time in traveling over improved roads. California is noted throughout the nation for good roads and it serves as an excellent advertisement for the state. Whatever mistakes may have been made by the supervisors of the county they have planned wisely in the construction of good highways. It has been observed when driving over some of the main boulevards that the county roads are in much better condition than the roads in the cities. The county many years ago decided upon specifications of material to be used in the construction of the roads and these specifications have been quite generally adhered to, while in the cities there has been a tendency to save money by using specifications that call for a cheap grade of construction. The best is never any too good.

BACK TO CALIFORNIA

The man who spends a few months in California and returns to his old home in the East or Middle West is sure to return again soon. What is more attractive than the California climate? No cold wintry blasts, no snow drifts—just an even temperature the year round. The absence of the terrific electrical storms in the summer season, and the absence of the 20 degrees below zero temperature in the winter are arguments in favor of California that cannot be answered by the most brilliant men from the East and Middle West.

EXPLAINING THE REASON WHY

The all-wise men of the land are busy now explaining why the election went thus and so. Someone says Hughes lost because he wears whiskers. Others say he lost because he visited California. It has been said the Drys lost because the open saloon was not made the main issue. It has also been said that they lost because the leaders entered into too many combination political deals and by so doing lost the vote of the in-between class.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached Sunday morning upon the topic, "Why we love the church of God," taking his text from Psalms 122:1, "I was glad when they said unto me, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord.'"

The psalmist, David, expresses in these words his love for the Lord, which was a characteristic of his nature. He delighted in the Lord and in his worship; he enjoyed going into the sanctuary, and why should we for whom the Almighty has done so much not take a similar fervent delight in going into the house of the Lord?

There are a few very strong reasons why we should find enjoyment in visiting the sanctuary. It is the abode of the Lord and the rendezvous of the saints; with the Jews the love for the house of God was a national desire. Is there any reason why it should not be so with us? You come here to get something; do not forget that it is just as important that you give something; the church needs you just as you need the church.

You should go into the house of the Lord because there you should find spiritual power; it is the custodian of the truth. We believe in the doctrine of the incarnation, in the atonement, that without the shedding of blood here is no remission of sin. Righteousness is based upon the commandments and the sermon on the mount. The church is the body of our Christ and should radiate beauty and power. All power was given to Christ and by him to the church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. This is the day of organization, but the church must be more than an organization; it must be a living force. But what if the church lack the spirit of Christ? All cannot be leaders, but all can live the life. You think to find power in your office, your club or your social organization. Remember that these can only carry you to the brink of the river; none of them have power to go beyond. It is Christ that takes you over. Christ loved the church and gave himself to it that he might purify it. Should we not, therefore, be glad when they say, "Let us go into the house of the Lord?"

ASKING FOR CLEAR LAND TITLES

Surveyor General W. S. Kingsbury has returned to Sacramento from Washington, D. C., where he has been for several months working for the passage of legislation by congress to make it possible for hundreds of state applicants and settlers on land in California to obtain clear title to their land, which involves about 220,000 acres of what is known as "lieu lands" selected by the state of California for the benefit of said applicants, some of whom have waited for more than twenty years for title to their land. The necessary legislation passed the house of representatives and is now pending on the calendar in the United States senate and will be taken up when congress convenes in December of this year.

The 220,000 acres involved in the remedial legislation will not be conveyed to the purchasers from the state until the bill is passed by congress.

While in Washington, Kingsbury completed the adjustment of the school land grant whereby the state conveyed to the United States 26,000 acres of land and paid $22,760 in satisfaction of an excess of school land erroneously conveyed to the state by the United States.

The department of the interior thereupon revoked the order suspending the conveying of land selected by the state in lieu of unsatisfied losses to the school land grant and directed the conveyance to the state of 95,000 acres, thus perfecting the title of the purchasers of the land from the state of California.

Kingsbury will secure title for the purchasers and it will not be necessary for them to take any action in relation thereto unless they are called upon by the surveyor general to perfect some minor detail in their application.

Sorghum grain is a valuable poultry feed.

The 48 states are now spending $280,000,000 a year on good roads.

night watches, and for the rest committed ourselves to God's protection. "Finally the uproar spread to Busegwe also. A chief and his sub-chief with women and children had fled from Niagangi with their 150 head of cattle, but Busegwe natives surrounded them and robbed them of all the 150 cattle, and killed one woman and one child. By this time the excitement was started. The natives painted themselves for war, and wore spears, swords, bows and poisoned arrows. They rushed in crowds here and there, and came finally howling and yelling on the mission land toward our house. We saw that the time had come to leave, so we had everything made ready for the flight. Several chiefs who were robbed of all their property by the invading natives came to us when the natives sought to kill them. They had before earnestly besought me to ask the English to come to quiet the uproar; but the English force had only gotten one of my three notes and were very busy elsewhere and could not come, but advised me to come to them.

"So we started off. At every kraal we came to we heard of new troubles. For eight days we remained behind in a land in uproar, and we were very tired from the nervous strain and loss of sleep. Friday evening we arrived in Sizaki, one of our missions. Here the natives had already robbed some of the mission and private property, and the teacher had fled away. Sizaki was also in a state of war, the subchiefs having been robbed of their cattle, and the natives were attempting to rob the property of the chief when we came. We felt it might be the last day we would ever see, and yet we decided to wait here over the Sabbath.

"When we went on, five chiefs who feared for their lives, and their subchiefs, accompanied us through a country like a zoological garden. Right and left were hundreds upon hundreds of zebras, hartbeest, wildebeest, many antelopes and gazelle, also ostriches and other animals. I did not take time to hunt, but hurried right on. That evening we slept by the seashore at Speke Gulf, on the southeastern shore of the lake. Here the Swahili overseers of the lime works had been killed. We saw their empty huts, as well as the empty house of the European who used to live there.

"Monday we came into country under the chief of Ukerewe, and Tuesday we were by the channel separating Ukerewe Island from the mainland. Wednesday we crossed in the canoes and soon were met by the English outposts—we were in safety. The chief official came down to meet us, and received us very kindly. We were brought to the camp at Buramba, where we were given a very nice and comfortable thatch hut.

"Since coming here, we have received news of how the natives have not only robbed one station after another, but how they have destroyed the buildings and everything in them. We had hoped to be able to stay here until the English officials came to bring order and law into the country, and then go back to our station at Busegwe, where we shall, of course, find all our things gone and the house damaged. We have personal property at the station to the worth of some $300 at least, besides much mission and government property. The chief official here thinks, however, that we will likely be called to Muawza, where all Europeans are sent who come from the German colony. I suppose this place is yet not considered without danger from attack.

"We have had much sickness in our family through these two years, but we thank God that our lives have been spared through these seven years of labor in Africa.

"VALD. E. TOPPENBERG."

IMPROVED BURBANK CAR SERVICE

At a meeting of the city trustees of Burbank last Wednesday evening, it was announced by President J. T. Bate of the Burbank Chamber of Commerce, who was accompanied by Superintendent Bradley of the Pacific Electric railway and Asst. Traffic Manager O. C. Smith, that on November 20 the Pacific Electric will inaugurate a new service between this section and Los Angeles. Cars will then be run every 40 minutes or oftener, and the running time will be cut from 50 to 41 minutes. Part of the cars on the new schedule will run "shuttle" between Burbank and Broadway Junction at Glendale, to connect here with the frequent cars between Glendale and Los Angeles. Most of the cars, however, will run from Burbank to Los Angeles without change. In the morning through cars will leave Burbank at 6:15, 7:05, 7:35, 8:15, 8:35, and after that every 40 minutes until 4:10 p. m., when through cars will leave Los Angeles for Burbank at 4:10, 5:10 and 6:10, with a shuttle car also at 5:45. After 6:10 shuttle cars will run every hour until midnight.

FACTS AND COMMENT

Local option was defeated in Lankershim at the recent election, the vote being 325 against liquor and 128 for.

The El Monte Walnut Growers' association shipped its last car of walnuts on November 6, making a total for the season of 440 tons. Last year 432 tons were shipped.

During the season just closed Lankershim walnut growers received about $21,000 for their walnuts. The price last year was 11½ cents and this year it was 13½ cents.

The plate glass windows have been placed in the new business block that is being erected on Brand boulevard opposite the postoffice. The Easton hotel and the Horton shoe shop will be located in this building.

There is some talk of a high jitney bus license in the city of San Fernando. A license of $200 or $300 per year is being advocated by one of the principal stage owners of that city.

Congressman C. H. Randall's supporters of the city of San Fernando will tender him a reception at a date between this and November 23. Mr. Randall received a large vote in that city.

The Riverside district has shipped its first car of oranges for the 1916-17 season, it probably also being the first in California. They were shipped from the Monte Vista packing house to Los Angeles.

A Lankershim resident, Albert Hoessrich, is reported to have formed a new international language, which he has named "Tal." The new language has been evolved by Mr. Hoessrich after thirty years of study and research.

The Van Nuys Poultry association will give a poultry show in Los Angeles, at 409 South Hill street, on November 22, 23 and 24. There will be no entry fee, but poultrymen who wish to enter fowls must deliver them in Los Angeles.

About 200 carloads of alfalfa have been shipped out of the Antelope valley from Lancaster this season. It is estimated that the total shipment for the season will be about 300 carloads. This is only a minor portion of the yield, as most of the hay raised is consumed in the valley.

The Whittier walnut industry, through the efforts of the Whittier Chamber of Commerce, has arranged with the Mutual Films corporation to have pictures of the walnut groves and pictures of the various steps in picking, sacking and shipping them shown in moving pictures in the East.

The state horticultural commission estimates the orange crop in California this year as the largest in the state's history. San Bernardino county, which produces 31 per cent of the total orange crop in the state, promises a 95 per cent yield; Los Angeles and Orange counties, which produce 26 and 10 per cent respectively, will have a 100 per cent yield; Riverside county, 80 per cent.

A mass meeting was held in Palmdale on October 10 for the purpose of organizing a permanent Antelope valley association. A resolution passed called for the selection of three representatives from each business organization in the valley, and three from each precinct not having such an organization. The representatives chosen will meet in Lancaster on Saturday, November 18.

J. A. and F. W. Bishop of the Imperial valley have purchased 75 acres in the Van Nuys section for the site of a large, model dairy. The Bishop brothers have operated in the Imperial valley for four years. After a year's study of soil conditions on a ten-acre ranch purchased by F. W. Bishop in the San Fernando valley, it was decided that it was an ideal place for an alfalfa ranch and dairy.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Wiley, residing near Cortez, claim to have raised their egg production from 650 hens over 100 per cent in a period of 24 days by the use of electric lights. The theory is that during the short days hens sleep too long and do not eat enough to produce many eggs. The same experiment has been in operation for over a year at the Kline ranch in Burbank, also with reports of success.

The Altar society of the Holy Trinity church of Burbank will hold a flower show and bazaar Tuesday and Wednesday at Horne hall. Los Angeles florists will contribute exhibits. Valuable prizes have been donated by the Burbank merchants for the best local floral displays. A supper will be served by the ladies. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Charles Fisher, Mrs. Edward Fisher, Mrs. Genevieve Strout and Mrs. Henry Dunning.

Eagle Rock will hold a bond election on November 18, at which time the voters will consider the purchase of the local water plant, now owned by a private company. If the water bonds carry, it is expected there will be a considerable reduction in water rates to the consumer. The Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce has announced a mass meeting for Tuesday evening, November 14, to discuss the water bond question.

The officers of the California State Automobile association say—Never before in the history of California have the newspapers of the state responded so handsomely to a call for assistance in a campaign in behalf of a great bond issue for public improvements as they have in the fight just concluded with such satisfactory results for the $15,000,000 bond issue for the completion of the state highway system.

Duarte and South Monrovia ranchers have been bending their efforts toward rushing the flood control plans and the building of storm protection walls along the banks of the San Gabriel before the flood season arrives. Appropriations have been made by the county to the extent of $2250, on condition that the ranchers raise a like amount, and directors of the Duarte-Mutual Water company have been authorized to add the sum of 1½ cents assessments, about $1800, if necessary to secure the county money. The Pacific Electric, Southern Pacific and Santa Fe will contribute to the general fund in addition to carrying on their own private work.

State Market Director Weinstock recently addressed the members of the Van Nuys Poultry association, urging the formation of a co-operative association of poultrymen in Southern California to represent not less than 400,000 hens, for the marketing of their products. A draft of the proposed corporation, to be known as the Poultry Producers of Southern California, Inc., was presented and explained in detail. The plan follows the same general lines as the organization formed in Central California, the membership of which on October 30th represented 1,000,000 hens. M. A. Schofield, president of the Federated Poultrymen of Southern California, also spoke, favoring the organization. The names secured at the meeting represented 20,000 hens, 115,000 hens having previously been secured in other districts.

DILL PICKLES AND WALNUTS

Albert Cornwell and Dan Keltz, Jr., of Cornwell & Keltz's hardware store of Glendale, Ralph Stone and Ed Goetz of Casa Verdugo grocery store, went to Big Tejuca Sunday on a fishing trip. Fishing was good and the gentlemen were successful in that line, but came home rather hungry after a luncheon of walnuts and dill pickles. The lunch was left in the auto while the party set out in search of a good fishing spot. Some wild animal smelled the lunch and saw them go, and leaping into the auto made way with three or four dozen sandwiches, which he removed from a heavy wrapping of paper, and a dozen apples. He refused to risk his digestion on dill pickles and unshelled walnuts, so these only were left to ease the hunger of the fishermen. The animal also refused to eat out of a tin pail. Ed Goetz's lunch having been packed in that receptacle. Mr. Goetz going for his lunch pail, and noting the absence or remains of his companions' lunch decided they had already lunched, so ate his own lunch before he discovered their predicament. According to the size of its appetite, the gentlemen are sure that their visitor was at least a mountain lion or a wildcat. It is needless to report that all enjoyed a good dinner on their return home.

SCHOOL BOYS ASSIST IN TREE PLANTING

Mr. Marek, city forester, was assisted in the city tree planting Saturday by a number of the local school boys. About 350 trees were planted, the plantings being made between West Broadway and Penn street and west from Central avenue to San Fernando road. The boys are to be rewarded with a button bearing a tree on it if they will plant and care for a tree until it is well started. Mrs. C. Cable, chairman of the civic committee of the Pacific Avenue Parent-Teacher association, assisted by Mrs. Ella Richardson, are also planning a further surprise for the boys who worked Saturday, the nature of which they will discover later. The boys who assisted in Saturday's planting include the following: Walter Puffer, Johnnie Richardson, Paul Richardson, Ronald Greenwalt, Roger Ward, George Roach, Robert Roach, Edward Perkins, Oliver Clark, Otto Kaysback, Arnold Cushman, John Copeland, H. C. Tomaw, and others.

MOTHER'S ROOM

My childhood's home! Along the silent halls, Long tenantless, my sounding foot-step falls. While echo answers from the mold'ring walls, Close-wrapped in chill and gloom. Within my heart a thousand memories throng—I hear a sob, a prayer, the voice of song; I wander in and out, but linger long In mother's room.

I see her now. A sweet, unclouded face, A being shrouded with a nameless grace, Whose presence made our home a holy place. She was the one to whom We came our childish trials to rehearse, Our loving comrade, comforter and nurse. Here was the center of the universe, Our mother's room.

'Twas here our guilty heads in shame bowed low, With contrite hearts, with halting feet and slow, When mother-love must punishment bestow, We came to learn our doom. The sages were less wise than mothers are! Our wounded spirits healed without a scar. For mercy's seasoned justice at the bar, In mother's room.

Dear mother! Tender, faithful, true and brave, She lives today within the lives she gave, While over yonder on her quiet grave, The summer roses bloom; For ever in her children's hearts appears The fragrance of the hopes and prayers and tears Like precious incense, floating down the years From mother's room. —New York Observer.

LOST—ONE CORD

"Saturday night some miscreant lugged off a whole cord of my wood," declared Silas. "Have you tried to forget it?" inquired his friend. "Yes; Sunday morning I went to church, hoping I could get it off my mind, and before I had been there five minutes the choir started in singing 'The Lost Chord,' so I got out." —Judge.

He who betrays another's secret because he has quarreled with him, was never worthy of the sacred name of friend. A breach of kindness on one side will not justify a breach of trust on the other.—Emerson.

Wash water used in the churn should be approximately the same temperature as the buttermilk, or within 2 degrees of it.

WHERE THE GOLD COMES FROM

Somebody recently asked: "Whence comes all the gold that is being shipped to this country? How does Europe scratch it up?" The answer came promptly. This country has added about $500,000,000 of gold to its stock in the last two years, but in that same time the world has produced twice that amount in new gold. Just about a billion dollars' worth of gold is added to the world's stock every two years.

It seems like a big store, and it is. Yet the wheat crop of this country is worth this year more than the world's gold production in the last two years—a good deal more. The country's cotton crop is worth nearly twice as much per annum as the whole world's gold crop. Our corn is worth pretty nearly four times as much as the whole world's gold; sometimes more, sometimes less.

They say that because the countries on the allies' side in the war control about all the world's new gold production they are certain to win. Perhaps so; but a better reason is that they have free access to the production of the American farms, which is sufficient to account for their increased activity in every direction. —Ex.

THE LIMIT

"I once knew an angler who was always bragging about his catches," said President J. H. Bean to his fellow angler, Judge Bledsoe. "That so?" said the Judge.

"Yes," continued Bean; "bragging was his 'sole' pleasure. He was a little 'shrimp' of a man with not much 'mussel' to speak of, but he considered himself a 'dab' at fishing. I knew his yarns were all 'cod,' and when he began to 'founder' I pulled him off his 'perch' and put him in his 'place,' and told him not to 'carp' at my remarks, but he swallowed the 'bait' and took the 'hook' and I haven't had so much as 'line' from him since."

HINT FOR A RAINY DAY

"Your hardwood floors are always so exquisitely polished," said Mrs. Jones. "How do you manage it?" "Oh, I just put chamois rompers on the children and let them play in the house," responded Mrs. Brown.—Lippincott's.

More than 260,000 boys and girls were enrolled in 1915 agricultural and canning clubs conducted co-operatively by the state colleges and the department.

The population of the United States has increased by 24,000,000 people in the last 15 years, and the number of beef animals has decreased 6,000,000 and sheep 10,000,000, while hogs have increased only 11,000,000.

Diseases of animals cause losses of $212,000,000 a year in the United States. Much of this loss is preventable.

UTILIZING THE WASTE MINUTES

The successful work is that which is thought out beforehand. When a woman goes down to get dinner, and begins to flutter over the leaves of her cook book, it needs nothing more to show what sort of housekeeper she is. The people who make the days count, are those who know when they rise just what they are going to accomplish before night.

When one learns to utilize waste minutes in thinking out, planning, weighing, deciding, the effect is the same as if life were lengthened. Most of us spend considerable time on the street cars, for example. Many read the papers to the great detriment of their eyesight; others read the signs under the ventilators and stare at their fellow passengers. And a few have learned to concentrate their minds on some vexed problem and think it out to a solution. If we utilized our waste minutes for thinking, our waking hours would be vastly more effective and we should have more time for thorough-going recreation. Why not form the habit?

A HERO MAY BE AFRAID

A man is not a coward simply because he is afraid, because his knees shake under him, and the receding blood leaves his face white and drawn. If, in spite of torturing fear, he stands his ground and remains true to his duty, he is a hero; more of a hero indeed that he would be if he had not had to fight his fear. It is only when he allows fear to get the better of him and make him false to duty that he becomes a coward.

Grackles and blue jays often destroy eggs and nestlings of other birds.

PRECINCT MAP OF GLENDALE

The accompanying map was published in the Evening News almost daily several weeks prior to the election, and notwithstanding this on election day many voters called the Evening News office by phone, asking the location of certain voting precincts.

Today we give space to the map for the purpose of allowing those who wish to become familiar with the location of their voting precinct to do so.

Solid heavy lines represent boundary of City Precincts. Broken lines represent boundary of County Precincts. Vertical figures in circle designate City Precincts. Slanting figures designate County Precincts.

Verdugo Canyon territory is in City Precinct No. 1.
